Shot Off His Head—New Bank Officers—Rain Storms—Some True Democrats in Louisville.

McPherson and Street.

The Directors of the Bank of Hopkinsville met yesterday with all of its directors present. Cuthier J. Edgar McPherson was elected President of the Bank and accepted the position.

There were several candidates for cashier, but none of those spoken of was elected. After considering the matter with care, the directors unanimously tendered the position to Mr. George P. Street, of Elizton. Mr. Street was in the city yesterday but has not yet decided whether he will accept the position or not. He is a resident of this county and was a cashier of the Bank of Louisville eight years ago. The newly elected cashier is 47 years of age and comes as an experienced man, having been for eight years assistant cashier of the Bank of Elizton. He will decide in a few days whether he will accept or not and if he decides to take the position, it will be his duty August 1st, moving his family to the city later in the season.

The new President's promotion has been virtually settled for some weeks. His selection gives entire satisfaction to the patrons of the bank and the generally.

Cloudburst Near Frankfort.

Louisville, Ky., July 21.—Ten lives were lost and great havoc wrought to property by a cloudburst last night and early this morning, which seems to have started its fury on Benson Creek in Franklin county, where two houses were washed away and every one of their occupants drowned. The dead are:

James Bradley and two children; bodies recovered.

Mrs. James Bryant and two children; body recovered.

Unknown man; body recovered.

Mrs. James Bradley and two children; one body not recovered.

While the rainfall within an area of one hundred miles ranged from 1.50 to 2.50 inches, no definite loss of life is reported, though bridges are down and communication between the county seat to the outlying portions is cut off.

In Louisville over five inches of rain fell here during the past twenty-four hours, flooding streets and railroad tracks and breaking huge sewers. The Louisville and Nashville is the greatest sufferer, the tracks which connect the Cincinnati with the main division being under water. The Chesapeake and Ohio is using the Southern tracks between Louisville and Lexington.

New Telephone Line.

The following letter regarding the Hopkinsville telephone, explains itself:

Nashville, Tenn., July 21, 1896.
Messrs. N. B. Dicken & Co.,
Fairview, Ky.

Gentlemen:

Replies to your esteemed favor of July 18th I have to say that our construction gang just finished a line between Alpenwells and Russellville, and will transfer the latter part of this week, or by Monday morning to begin building the line from Hopkinsville to Fairview.

Yours truly,
Jas. E. Caldwell, Pres't.

Shot of His Head.

Henry Blankenship, a 14-year-old boy, colored, son of Richard Blankenship, a hunter, accidentally killed himself late Monday evening while out frog hunting. The boy, company with one of his sisters, had gone to a pond near by to shoot frogs. While sitting on a log the gun slipped from his hands and in falling was discharged, hitting his brother in the top of his skull and scattering his brains in every direction, causing instant death.

Another Ball Tie.

Louisville, Ky., July 21.—Last night's rainstorm was the worse that has come to Kentucky for many years. From all points of Central Kentucky comes reports of the most ruinous destruction to crops, fence and buildings. As many as a dozen counties were visited by the flood and the extent of the disaster is not yet fully known.

Another Ball Tie.

The games of ball here this week between Hopkinsville and Madisonville resulted in tie each club winning a victory. Tuesday's game was won by the locals, the score being 14 to 2, and Wednesday's game went to the visitors by the score of 11 to 8.

Kill at Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., July 21.—In a dispute over a billiard table at a saloon between Hopkinsville and Madisonville the billiard table was shot and instantly killed W. B. Appleton. The men were partners in the dry goods business and both were prominent business men. Edge has been arrested.

Tom Massie killed.

Tom Massie, a colored man whose home was in this city, was one of the victims of the cloudburst near Frankfort. His remains were brought here for interment yesterday.

CITY KNOCKED OUT.

SPECIAL JUDGE REEVES DECIDES THE FOUNTAIN CASE.

Holds That the City Has Never Formally Accepted The Request—An Appeal Taken.

Judges Willis L. Reeves, who was called upon to sit in the case of the city of Hopkinsville vs. J. I. Landes, Executor of Mrs. M. N. Roach, deceased, delivered his opinion yesterday morning, deciding against the city.

The case was tried Wednesday and argued by Hon. Walter Evans and Judge James Breathitt for the defendant and by Judge R. T. Petree and City Attorney Jas. B. Allenworth for the city. The suit grew out of a bequest left to the city by Mrs. Roach by will in 1891, $2,000 to erect a fountain and $700 to keep it repair. This money if not so appropriated was to go to Judge Landes and two nieces of Mrs. Roach in equal parts. The city at that time had no waterworks and when application was made for the money Judge Landes refused to furnish it, claiming that it could not be used to provide water. A suit resulted and he was sustained in this position. The present suit was then brought in 1894. Judge Reeves gave his opinion orally, the substance of which is here reported:

The great purpose is to find out what was the intention of the will. It is necessary to ascertain what Mrs. Roach meant. I don't think there is any doubt that she intended to put upon the city the burden of maintaining the fountain for all time. The next question is how the city undertaken to carry out her purpose? The city approached the matter very guardedly. A committee was appointed to consider the bequest and report upon it. They found that if the city would not furnish the water supply it would not accept the fountain. The Superior Court said the money must be used to erect the fountain and not to supply the water. It could not be expended for any other purpose.

The case was then dismissed without prejudice in December, 1891.

Then it was brought again in 1894. Then it passed another ordinance, but did not formally accept it. The Superior Court said it hadn't accepted it in 1891. Nor has it since. It never had a simple thing to accept when the city turned it down and pried the city to carry out the conditions.

Many good Democrats were changed and the speech has done much to unite the party in this country and to divide the Republican party on the great question of the day.

COLD-MORE GOLD!

Wall Street Sharks Paving the Way for More Bonds.

Washington, July 20.—The gold reserve went below ninety millions today. At the close of business the figures were $85,761,326.

In the opinion of the president and Secretary Cushing, of the Treasury, no expression of opinion can be obtained from them, but treasury officials who possess their confidence, do not hesitate to say that there will be no change in the attitude of the administration toward the gold reserve, and that it is necessary to maintain another bond issue will be resorted to when the reserve reaches the point of the newspaper.

It is generally believed there will be an early issue of bonds.

Washington, July 21.—One feature of note in the day's operations at the Treasury was the startling increase of the amount of gold withdrawn from the Sub-Treasury for hoarding in New York yesterday, to $6,900,000 in coin, was not cut for any purpose, but to-day was cut for export.

The reserve was diminished to-day by the amount of $27,765,000, of which $125,000 was cut for export and $1,000,000 for hoarding. There was a delay of three years after December, 1891. It is impossible to consider that the city had not abandoned its claim. The only reason now for a change of purpose is that in the whirling of time it has watered down.

Mr. W. T. Tandy, of Madisonville, thinks the city has now accepted the bequest. It has done nothing to carry out the conditions. It might be well considered whether it was best for the city to accept $2,000 on such conditions. If the city in tended to accept, it ought to have appointed a committee to go and get the money and bind the city to furnish the water that was to run up the reservoir.

Mrs. Roach required that it undertake to furnish the trust and carry out her purpose. It might prove a costly gift to the city. The money will be used to bind the city and the city have to restore it. It might be well considered whether it was best for the city to accept $2,000 on such conditions. If the city in tended to accept, it ought to have appointed a committee to go and get the money and bind the city to furnish the water that was to run up the reservoir.

It is generally believed that a refusal, and after refusing can reconsider. But the court dismissed the case without prejudice it would have been considered a final refusal. The court may have wanted to give the city another chance, but after a reasonable time out it has given up its right to carry out the conditions.

It may be that the city intended to accept the conditions, but it did not do so. It is difficult to understand why the city has abandoned its claim, first by refusal and then by failure.

A New Gas President.

Mr. W. T. Tandy has been elected President of the Hopkinsville Gas and Lighting Co., vice Hon. E. P. Campbell, deceased. Mr. Nat Gathier was elected a director in the company.

Dr. Clardy has been in Henderson county this week making a canvass of the county. That county is likely to go for him on August 1st, unless his interests are butchured in this county to-morrow by the supporters of Judge Bishop. Bishop's managers boast that they have had a number of caucassers scouring the country for several days "fixing things" for their man and that their plans are all laid to carry twenty or more precincts. The people however may conclude not to be controlled by these whip persons.

The Bowling Green Times issued a sixteen-page special edition last week that was out of the handsomeness and most complete illustrated trade papers ever sent out from a Kentucky newspaper office. About 110 portraits of well known citizens of Bowling Green were given in creditable write-ups added to the general interest. Book paper was used and the printing was especially well executed. Messrs. Ringo & Lewis, and Mr. Mason who got out the paper, deserve much credit for the success of the undertaking.

The chances of Judge Yeaman to carry Christian county must indeed be very slim when Editor Meacham, of the Kentuckian appeals to the Knights of Pythias to support the Henderson country man in preference to Judge Bishop. Such tricks as using a second option in politics should be below Mr. Meacham.—Paducah Standard.

Mr. Meacham has made no such appeal to any voter in any county. If the Standard knew what methods have been resorted to in this county in the interest of Judge Bishop, it would not embarrass his friends by speaking of "tricks."

The Courier-Journal quotes Henry Burnet of Paducah, as follows:

"I have no friends in anything that I shall not vote for the Chicago ticket. It is needless to go into details; every sound-money Democrat knows where the objections to that ticket and platform are."

The report reached this city some time ago that Mr. Burnett had returned to the Democratic party, but it seems he has decided to repeat his performance of last year.

At this stage of the campaign believe nothing you may be told about Judge Yeaman by his enemies. He is not in the county and cannot defend himself against misrepresentations.

Vote for Yeaman to-morrow and help your candidate for Congress.

JUDGE M. YEAMAN

Woman's Work

The most prominent member of the Henderson Bar for a considerable number of years, possessing a keen insight to everything judicial, being a man of exceptionally temperate habits and good morals, with an inherent ability to judge between right and wrong, a feeling for mankind in general that amounts to nothing less than admiration, a Democrat tried and true, in its broadest sense, and as such believing that the majority should govern, he is better qualified for the duties of the office which he seeks than any other man in the district. Mr. Yeaman has a natural antipathy for professional politics, and this fact always has been the stumbling block which has withheld his name so long, and prevented the people from placing him in a position of trust.

Henderson, his home town, is justly proud of this man. Where he is best known, there are to be found his friends and staunchest supporters. Henderson county is for him to a man, and in every adjacent county his admirers are far in the majority. A recent canvass of them shows that his strength and popularity is daily growing. In the counties somewhat removed he will be a winner, although not with the ease that will mark his victory at home.

Personally, Mr. Yeaman is a most affable and attractive gentleman, a good conversationalist with a plentiful supply of wit, tinged by a very pleasant supply of humor, a kindly disposition, generous and forgiving nature, and one with whom it is easy to make friends.

Should he be elected, and we have not the slightest fear but that he will, we say positively that no one will ever have cause to regret the vote cast for him.—Fulton Guard.

Judge Yeaman has gained much ground this week in Christian county and will enter the conventions to-morrow with every prospect of success. Dr. Clardy's friends have at last seen the danger to our county candidate and many of them have dropped Bishop like a hot potato.

Yeaman's friends in Trigg county, including many who hold dear the memory of the lamented Judge Grace, who was saved from defeat by Judge Yeaman's county, are claiming that county for him with such confidence that the Bishop men are thoroughly alarmed. Trigg is a very doubtful county.

Every friend of Dr. Clardy's in Christian county should go to the convention to-morrow and vote against the scheme to injure Clardy by taking this county away from Yeaman. Vote for Yeaman and Henderson will vote for Clardy.

We see no reason to alter the opinion we have heretofore expressed that Judge Yeaman will carry Christian county to-morrow by a two-thirds majority. Encouraging reports are coming in from all parts of the country.

Hoke Smith's paper, the Atlanta Journal, has come out for Bryan and Sewall and President Cleveland is threatening to turn him out of the Cabinet if Washington gossips are to be believed.

Messrs. Yeaman & Lockett were heavy losers in the Henderson fire Sunday night. Their library and office fixtures were valued at $1,000, and the insurance was only $700. The loss was total.

Twenty-eight conventions in as many precincts will be held in Christian county to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Don't fail to go to your usual voting place and vote for Judge Yeaman.

C. Simons, the wealthiest man in Southern Wisconsin, has declared in favor of Bryan and Sewall. He has always been a Republican.

Judge Yeaman is making a strong fight in Lyon county and either Yeaman or White will carry that county. Judge Bishop is a very poor third in the race.

Elections will be held in four Southern States before Paducah. Alabama will elect a full State ticket in August; Arkansas will elect a Governor in September and Florida and Georgia will vote for Governors in October.

Edward Miller, the Indiana man who murdered his wife, and killed himself, left a will directing that he be buried one mile from his wife. His directions were complied with yesterday.

AFRICA'S TERRIBLE FLY.

History and Habits of an Insect Explorer Hold in Dread.

We have been so accustomed to hear of the ravages of the tsetse fly in south Africa that definite scientific information on the subject cannot fail to be welcome, says the London Chronicle. Surgeon Maj. Bruce, at the request of the Natal government, is investigating the habits, life history, etc., of this terrible cattle scourge.

The fly has been well known for nearly 50 years to be in some way the cause of the disease known among the Zulus as nagan, a term signifying low or depressed in spirits. The genus to which the fly belongs is called the African blood-sucking stomoxys and contains six known African species, for all which tsetse appears to serve as a common name.

As showing the want of exact knowledge existing on the subject, it is stated that observers and travelers have even questioned the connection between the fly and the disease. Thus so eminent a diphtherologist as Van der Wulp has concluded that the tsetse is not injurious or deadly, and that its effects are exaggerated.

From Dr. Bruce's observations it would appear that the fly is viviparous, giving birth to adult larvae, a most important fact hitherto unnoticed. The disease itself, he finds, is due to the presence in the blood of an extremely minute animal of flagellated infusoria, called haematozoa, furnished with a membranous or "fin," running along one side of the body, with a flagellum at one end. The appearance of this haematozoa in the blood is signalized by a rise in temperature; the incubation period is from seven to twenty days, after which period the haematozoa may be found swimming actively among and apparently "worrying" the corpuscles, the red-blooded corpuscles becoming very largely reduced in numbers. With the progress of the disease the haematozoa increase in numbers, and at the time of their host's death may amount, in the dog, to 30,000 per cubic millimeter of the blood.

Dr. Bruce has demonstrated that the fly possesses no specific venom, but that, if allowed to draw blood from a diseased animal or the carcass of one, they will communicate nagan to healthy animals. The disease is invariably fatal in the horse, ass and dog, but, perhaps not necessarily so in cattle, in which it runs a much slower course. From some preliminary experiments an arsenic appears to have a marked action on nagan, causing disappearance of the haematozoa, reduction of temperature and maintenance of the red-blooded corpuscles.

To Run Backwards.

The Engineer News reports that a watch with the hands moving from right to left is being made by Swiss watchmakers. "It is designed," says the news, "for the markets of Turkey, Japan and other oriental countries, where the natives read all writing in the reverse direction from that common among us. Watchmen are said to be a demand for such watches, and the European makers set a good example to many of our own manufacturers by meeting this demand and adapting its product to the customs of the native consumer."

Napoleon's Decree Still Good.

The judgment of the lower court is sustained, which fines Coquelin $100 for each of the first 30 performances he gives in Paris or the provinces, and will assess the damages to the Comedie in case he continues to be contentious.

DIES OF A BROKEN HEART.
Family Pet Stolen, But Returns to Expire at Home.

Eugene V. Dobs was dead—not the labor leader who was autocrat of the big railroad strike, but a much more humble individual. Only a dog, in fact; a little short-tailed, narrow-chested specimen of caninity, which had no ancestors to speak of, yet belonged to the respectable middle class of dogdom.

Not many instances are on record where dogs have died of broken hearts, and the story of how this one pined away just because he was separated for a time from his master and mistress is a most interesting one.

At the time of his death, says the Chicago Chronicle, Eugene lived in a very little flat at 110 Leland Avenue, Ravenswood, with Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Churchill. He was an affectionate fellow, with graceful ways and many accomplishments and was handsome in appearance. To be sure, there was a black spot right on the end of his nose, but that in a dog is simply a beauty mark, the more so as he had one to match on his back and lighter, fawn-colored blotches on his white coat distributed with the best regard for artistic effects. Eugene had been to school and could do all sorts of things that educated dogs nightly go through to the edification of large audiences at the variety shows. But he was unlike them in that animal actors in one way. While they watch eagerly each motion of their trainer in terror of the innocent-looking but keen whip which he carries always in sight, Eugene's only indument to go through his antics was the thought of a bun or a savory morsel of fried beefsteak to come after they were over. Sometimes he got chocolate drops. If there was anything he loved it was chocolate drops. In any case he would wag his abbreviated tail in a frantically happy manner and be ready at a moment's notice to respond to an encore, like all amateurs.

He could walk on his hind legs, sit up and beg with a look in his brown eyes that would melt a heart of stone. He could also stand on the backs of two chairs, stretched apart a distance equal to the length of his little body. He couldn't run somersaults, but he listened attentively to everything said to him and seemed to understand a great deal of it. So Mrs. Churchill says, and she ought to know.

Everywhere that his master and mistress went Eugene followed, too. The dog would trot calmly behind, deigning once in awhile to stop and rub noses with a chance canine acquaintance, and it was during one of these trips about three weeks ago that he was stolen. Mr. Churchill advertised in the want columns of newspapers, but they were not responded to. The other day a weary, dejected-looking dog with the far-away expression in his eyes which a tramp wears after he has walked many dusty roads, came up to the house in Leland avenue and inquired at the back door in as plain a way as a dog can whether or not any member of the family was in.

"Lord bless my soul!" exclaimed the servant to whom the question was addressed, "if that ain't Gene. Here, 'Genel Here, 'Genel!" But Eugene would have no further dealings with the domestic, and it was only when Mrs. Churchill ran out and embraced him that a gleam of his old-time humor came into his eyes.

When Mr. Churchill came home from his business downtown the dog seemed to be overjoyed, but lacked the strength to express his feelings. He refused to eat from the time he entered his home and even a pyramid of chocolate had lost its charms for him. All day, while his master was in the city, he would lie down despondently and utterly refuse to be comforted. Of course he could not live without food, and on the third day his strength gave away altogether, and he gave up his life.

Doctors could find nothing the matter with him. It seems very clear that he only refused to take his food because his heart was not in it, and he did not care whether school kept or not or whether death was the schoolmaster. All his pretty tricks were gone, and when he died there was the most pathetic look in his eyes—such a look as can only be expressed by a volumes which told that his three weeks' separation from those in whom all the affections of his little body centered had wounded him to the quick. He may have thought they were in some way responsible for it. Nobody knows what just went through his mind.

A Large Porker.

What is said to be the largest hog ever raised in Delaware was killed a few days ago at Felton. It was of the Black Berkshire breed and was about three years old. It weighed 1,100 pounds, was seven feet four inches in length, six feet two inches around the body, four feet eight inches around the neck, and three feet four inches high at the shoulder.

We're Ahead of Columbus.

The shortest line from the old world to the new is that between Cape Verde and Brazil, and the Portuguese are producing strong testimony to show that their map makers knew of the existence of Brazil as early as 1445, or about the time Columbus was born. No one now doubts the Norse discovery of America centuries before the time of Columbus, and the Pacific coast of America was undoubtedly visited by Asiatics long before the Christian era. A "Cozy" Corner.

For upholstering a window seat or a "corner" in a blue room nothing can be more delightful than the old-fashioned blue and white homespun spreads which a few fortunate women have inherited from their grandmothers. Against a wall hung in darker blue and piled with cushions of diverse hues their effect is charming.

London Births.

In London, in the 52 weeks of the past year, there were 133,718 births, a total which falls short of the corrected average by 5,486. The deaths numbered 86,939, this being also under the average to the extent of 1,011. There was, therefore, a natural increase of population, due to excess of births over deaths, amounting to 46,776.

THE LOST WAS FOUND.
Number Was Turned Over.

If anyone had told him he was drunk he would not have resented it, but would have made an effort to maintain his equilibrium and dignity long enough to explain that he was only a little "oozy-woozy." He realized that he lived at 206 Irvington street, and that his residence was on the right hand side as he waddled along homeward. The uncertain light of early dawn, combined with the blear in his eyes, rendered it necessary for him to stop in front of every house and gravely bring himself against the railing until he could focus his eyesight on the number.

Finally he identified his house, but, after arguing with himself for a couple of minutes, he came to the conclusion that he was just woosy enough to make mistakes possible, so to absolutely certain he balanced himself against the front fence and studied the number on the transom. Instead of 206 he saw 503. He rubbed his eyes and looked again, but the number had not changed. It was still 503. Then he wondered how it happened that he had got on the wrong side of the street and three blocks too far away, and zigzagged across the street and started back, but before he had walked three blocks he came to the end of the street.

The weary pilgrim was bewildered. He couldn't understand it, but, getting his directions, shaped his course out the street on the right side and kept on until he came to 509 again. He studied it from every possible point of view, even trying to stand on his head to read it, but it remained 509.

"Utterly bewildered, he sat down on the steps, and waited until a policeman came along."

"I'm lost," he explained. "I want to go to 206 Irvington street." "This is the place right here," declared the officer.

"Can't be. This is 509."

"No, it ain't; it's 206, but the transom is turned over."

The lost was found.—San Franisco Post.

GREATEST IN HISTORY.

The Chicago Fire of 1871 Said to Have Equal.

The Chicago fire of 1871, whether considered with regard to the area of land covered, the number of lives lost, or the value of the property destroyed, stands as the greatest of history. Over 18,000 buildings were destroyed, of which 2,400 were stores, shops or factories, and about 100,000 people were rendered homeless by the burning of their houses.

The district over which the conflagration swept was three and one-half miles long by one mile wide, covering the most densely populated portion of the city. It is said that 229 lives were lost by accidents during the progress of the fire, and the total value of the property destroyed was estimated at $192,000,000, this estimate not including over $4,000,000 allowed for salvage on foundations and the like.

Scores of fire insurance companies were forced to the wall by this terrible calamity, their losses being so great as to drive the companies into bankruptcy.

The cash contributions for the benefit of the sufferers of the Chicago fire amounted, within a month after the disaster, to $4,200,000, and the contributions in the way of supplies, food, clothing and other necessities to perhaps as much more.

In North Dakota, Tennessee, Arkansas, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Carolina and Georgia the cost of raising wheat is between $9.04 and $9.85.

In the states of Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Virginia, Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado, Idaho, Oregon and California the cost of raising wheat is from $10.45 to $12.85.

It is a singular fact that in farming communities so diverse in climatic conditions, and with labor of such radically different character, the cost of raising wheat should be about the same.

LITTLEFIELD-BIGEY.—Mr. George Littlefield of North Christian and Miss Emma Bigey of Benton, Ky., were married in this city Wednesday evening.

The Republican Planter.

Down with the consumer, and up with the suffering millionaire manufacturer!

Down with free trade, but up with import!

Down with the users of sugar and up with the price!

Down with cheap clothing and up with the wooden manufacturer!

Down with the merchant marine, unless built up by government subsidies!

Down with silver and up with the existing gold standard, under which the nation has flourished so well!

Down with economy and up with the old fog and a bigger appropriation!

Down with civil service reform, except where it keeps Republicans in office!

Down with the right to vote unless exercised under Republican supervision!

Down with lynching and up with rape and clandestine murder.

Down with temperance except exercised by the other fellow!

Down with all the rights of women except the right to help the Republican party!

Down with the people and up with Hanna!

Down with the poor and blessed be the name of the rich—Commercial Appeal.

Suit has been filed by Attorney General Taylor against S. A. Norman and J. C. Hubbard, formerly operators of the penitentiary chair factory in Frankfort, for $48,537.17. A counter-claim will be brought by the defendant.

Oscar Schwibb, a young man twenty-six years of age, shot and severely wounded Miss Pauline Crutch, twenty years of age, at the residence of Mrs. John Eiler, Louisville, because she refused to marry him.

MARRIED ON HIS DEATHBED.

A Wealthy New Yorker Weds the Girl of His Choice and Lives.

New York, July 21.—Edward R. Benedict, the son of James H. Benedict and relative of E. C. Benedict, the banker, died this evening several hours after he had been married to Miss Margaret Lloyd, a society belle of Cincinnati and daughter of Col. Harian Page Lloyd. The marriage was celebrated in Mr. Benedict's apartments, in the club house of the Seventh Regiment Veterans Club, and it was there that the young couple made their home.

He was a member of the firm of Benedict Bros., bankers and brokers. On July 1 he was stricken with typhoid fever. When it became known a few days ago that Mr. Benedict's condition was critical, Miss Lloyd, his fiancee, came to him.

Washington, telegraphed to her. She reached this city early this morning. Soon after, in company with one of Mr. Benedict's physicians, she went to the bed of Mr. Benedict. The latter was sinking fast, and it was at his earnest request that the marriage ceremony was performed.
